Excerpts of the Activity:

SIKLAB 2025 serves as the premier annual intramural meet of the Camarines Sur Polytechnic Colleges, meticulously designed to foster holistic development by honing the athletic prowess, artistic flair, and academic brilliance of the entire student body. Held from November 23 to 27, 2025, this year's festivities were centered on igniting the spirit of sportsmanship and camaraderie, creating a vibrant atmosphere that resonated throughout the entire institution.

The excitement ignited on Day 0, November 23, with the "Rev Up and Run!" fun run. This early morning activity saw an impressive turnout of students, employees, faculty members, and alumni, symbolizing a unified start to the week-long celebration. As evening fell, the campus was transformed for the highly anticipated Mr. and Ms. CSPC 2025 pageant. The night was a showcase of elegance and intellect, culminating in the crowning of Ms. Suheila Marie Petero from the College of Hospitality, Tourism, and Business Management and Mr. McDavid Loriga from the College of Health Sciences as the new ambassadors of the college.

On Day 1, the formal intramurals proper commenced with a grand Mass Parade featuring participating student-athletes from every campus and college, painting the grounds in a sea of departmental colors. The opening ceremony was further electrified by the rhythmic precision of the CSPC Marching Band and Majorettes, leading into the main highlight: a spectacular Mass Demonstration performed by the first-year students. This display of discipline and coordination set the stage for the official kick-off of the various sports tournaments, where athletes began their quest for glory.

The momentum continued into Day 2, where the physical grit of the sports events was complemented by the launch of the literary, visual, and academic competitions. This allowed the "battle of the wits" to take center stage, celebrating the students' talents in creative arts and scholarly excellence. By Day 3, the focus shifted to the performing arts, with the musical and dance competitions serving as the day's highlight. The campus was filled with melody and movement as students showcased their vocal range and choreographic creativity in front of a captivated audience.

The intensity reached its fever pitch on Day 4, dominated by the high-energy Dance Sports and Cheerdance Competitions. The gymnasium echoed with deafening cheers and rhythmic chants as each college performed gravity-defying stunts and intricate routines, embodying the peak of school spirit. This final day of competition solidified the bonds between teammates and rivals alike, proving that the heart of SIKLAB lies in the passion of its participants.

The event concluded in a resounding success, with the College of Health Sciences ultimately being hailed as the Overall Champions with an impressive total of 439 points. They were followed closely by the College of Engineering and Architecture with 419 points, the College of Technological and Developmental Education with 377 points, and the College of Tourism, Hospitality, and Business Management with 375 points. Rounding out the standings were the College of Computer Studies with 314 points, the College of Arts and Sciences with 192 points, and the CSPC – Buhi Campus with 109 points. SIKLAB 2025 ended not just with a tally of scores, but as a testament to the resilience and unity of the CSPC community.

Benefits Derived:

- Holistic Student Development: By integrating sports, academics, and the arts, the event provided a platform for students to discover and refine talents outside the traditional classroom setting, promoting a well-rounded personality.
- Strengthened Institutional Unity: The involvement of alumni, faculty, and students from various campuses including the Buhi Campus bridged gaps and fostered a sense of belonging and "CSPCian" pride.
- Physical and Mental Well-being: Activities like the "Rev Up and Run!" and various sports tournaments encouraged a healthy lifestyle and served as a constructive outlet for stress relief through physical movement and teamwork.
